

PROFILE OF HOPE: Meet Patsy Wooten Moeller, IOH Board Member and Ambassador:

"On Another Side of Town"

On another side of town...I found grace, grit, humility, hope, and more blessings than one can count. I found Interfaith Outreach Home.

On another side of town...I observed a modest, aging building with ten small apartments housing displaced families. It exists because others before me said 'Yes' to God's call to lift up the poor with love and dignity.

On another side of town...I learned that for some families, their vehicle serves as transportation by day and shelter at night.

On another side of town...I see gratitude in the smiles of the IOH families after an avalanche of hardships, now having found a safe home to remain united and focused toward building a strong foundation for a brighter future.

On another side of town... An IOH mom lovingly prepares dinner, helps with homework, and then tucks her kids into bed after a long day's work at a low paying job. A dad holds onto a dream of starting his own business, working three jobs to accumulate savings to make a better life for his wife and sons.

On another side of town...An IOH graduate, committed to sustained self-sufficiency, gets handed the keys to a new home from her hard-earned savings. She will be the first one in generations to own property.

On another side of town...A grown-up woman from suburbia witnesses humility and hope in everyday people from another side of town.
