“The Resurrection, Part 4: Resurrection and its Practical Implications”

INTRO: Paul continues his treatise on the resurrection with what some scholars have described as ad hominem arguments supporting the doctrine of resurrection.

I. Behavior reflects _____. Our core beliefs will be manifested in the choices we make and our engagement with culture.

II. If we disbelieve _____, our default behavior is _____. Without fear of judgment, “Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die.”

III. Belief in _____ has practical implications on _____ in this life (15:29-34). Paul shares three implications of this belief and its impact on the living.

A. The Religious Implication: _____
_____. Baptism pictures a Believer’s spiritual identification with Christ.

B. The Vindictory Implication: _____
_____. The Christian life can be a struggle that makes sense only in light of eternity.

C. The Moral Implication: _____
_____. For this, Paul gave three sobering commands.
