Pastor's Pondering

Unable to keep their dad's "forever home," my mom and uncle sold it to someone who "flipped it," which means that he made a lot of updates and sold it for a profit. My Mom was heartbroken from all the changes when she saw the real estate listing.

To be honest, as much as we all loved that house, the updates were an improvement. Had my mom or uncle kept it, they would not have made those updates. Our family would have kept the house more as a historical landmark.

When we are comfortable with something the way it is, we often struggle to imagine how it might be made better. I think that is a natural human tendency. As Jesus said: "And no one, after drinking old wine wishes for new; for he says, 'The old is good enough.'" (Lk. 5:39) Fortunately, God has an eye for how things can be better.

- Blessings, David
