Pastor's Pondering

They say that generals parading through Rome after a great victory would have a slave in their chariot whose job it was to whisper, "Remember, thou art mortal," or something to that effect. I suppose there are those to whom the praise will go to their head, but I find most people are embarrassed to be honored publicly.

I am thinking about this because Kathryn is about to graduate, and we are getting ready for her ceremony. Many people would rather skip such a ceremony altogether because they are uncomfortable receiving acknowledgment or praise. I can relate—that was me in high school.

It is good to honor people's accomplishments and to learn how to accept such celebration. So, while you probably don't need a slave whispering in your ear, I hope you will graciously accept praise and even celebration of you when it is appropriate.

- Blessings, David

May Memory Verse

Hebrews 10:23–25

²³Let us hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering, for He who promised is faithful; ²⁴and let us consider how to stimulate one another to love and good deeds, ²⁵not forsaking our own assembling together, as is the habit of some, but encouraging one another, and all the more as you see the day drawing near.
