

Message from Bishop Timothy W. Grant Sr.

GOING BACK TO SCHOOL

As bible believers, born again, set apart, and sanctified Christians who are gifted with the Holy Spirit, need to recognize and realize that learning will lay the pathway for success. There is a battle that we must contend with regarding our faith, we need to pause and recognize how important it is to learn.

When we are in the School of Faith, we can declare to the world that our faith will overcome our fatigue. There is no doubt we are going to get weary in our well doing, the promise is that although we get weary, in due season we will reap if we faint not.

We all get frustrated sometimes when it seems like we are the only one who is been responsible, accountable, and discipline but we must recognize and realize that God will always have somebody to do His Work and His Will. At the age of 57 years old, I submit to you with humility; although I have a Doctorate Degree; I still find myself in school learning, growing, and maturing.

As Christians we can never get too much education; we are called to study the Word of God so we can apply our faith even the more. God is still speaking to us, He is still using us, and He is still teaching us. So, I challenged you to keep going to school.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

It is so exciting to learn about who God is and what he has done for His people. As we continue our study about God; it is amazing how our Bible Study and Sunday School Lessons are in alignment with each other.

In our Bible Study we are learning about how “Worshipping is a Verb” and in our Sunday School we are leaning about the “Acts of Worship and Praise”. These lessons will give us examples of how biblical people celebrated God for His ultimate work. By the leading of the Holy Spirit, we will learn how “God’s People Offer Praise”, how we are called to “Praise & Worship God” and the “Visions of “Praise and Worship”. Our hope is to experience, discover, and live the way God intended.

Thank you to the Coordinator Elder Janis Hardy and the Deliverance Outreach Temple Church Education Department.

Eternal God, our Father, we thank you for the privilege and opportunity to be a part of your agenda for ministry. Thank you for making us instruments of your service that we may impact and influence the lives of those whom you place in our sphere of influence. We ask for your wisdom, insight, and most of all the presence and power of your Holy Spirit. In Jesus’ name, Amen.

Building positive relationships with students: What brain science says.
 By Trynia Kaufman, MS
 From the series:
 Back-to-school for educators

Many students are experiencing high levels of stress as school schedules change due to the coronavirus pandemic. Some students may be separated from friends and stuck at home. Others might be worried about getting sick. Students whose families are experiencing financial worries or illness are especially vulnerable. There are ways you can support students socially and emotionally even if they're not physically in your classroom every day.

- ◆ Showing that positive teacher-student relationships improve student learning — especially during stressful times. This is also true for online learning.
- ◆ Talk with students about how they're feeling.
- ◆ Check-ins with your students. Finding out where they're struggling and seek out strategies that can help build their social awareness and relationship skills.

EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

Cognitive development refers to the ability to know and understand the world. It includes our ability to think about and remember what is happening around us.

Children's thinking is different from the thinking of adults. Although adults have more information about the world, they also understand the world in different ways than children do. Over time, children move through distinct stages of thinking as they develop more complex ways of understanding the world.

When children are born, their brain is still growing and developing. In the first eight months of the child's life, the brain matures. Connections are made for wiring the brain. Children's play involves repeated interactions and explorations. These repeated experiences strengthen the connections in the brain.

Play is one of the most essential ways children develop their thinking skills. Child care providers should supply children with a variety of new materials, expose them to new experiences, and encourage them to explore and experiment. Building cognitive skills is an active process that requires hands-on learning. Choose activities that are just difficult enough so that children can learn a new skill or move toward a different way of thinking.

Talk. Read. Sing.<sup>SM</sup>

Your words have the power to shape their world.

The moment babies come into this world, their brains are forming the connections that will determine how they learn, think, and grow. In fact, 90% of their brains are developed by age five, and it starts from day one. Just remember:

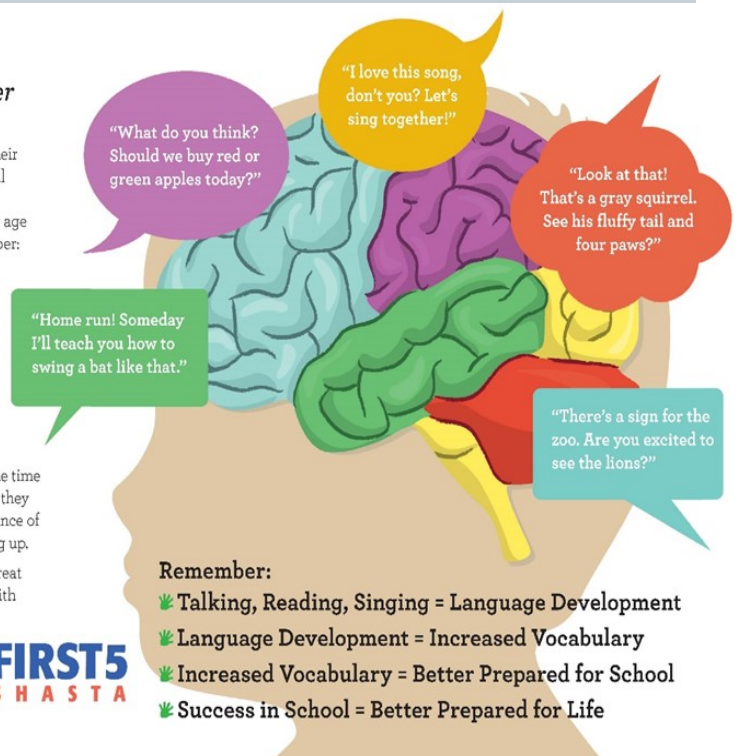

- ✓ Talk, read, and sing with your baby every day.
- ✓ Use the language you use with your friends—it helps build your child's vocabulary.
- ✓ Start early. Don't wait until your child is four or five to start talking and reading aloud with them.

Babies who are talked to and read to from the time they're born are better prepared by the time they start school. Kids who aren't have a 50% chance of falling behind and have a hard time catching up.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT BIBLE STUDY
@ 7 P.M. ON ZOOM.
MEETING ID 861 3553 3443, PASSCODE 793704

Worship Is a Verb Bible Study lesson to help us understand worship and to assist us in applying the eight principles of worship in our church. This can be a part of an exciting change---a change from passive worship to active worship, not as spectators but a participator. Worship is a Verb is not something done to us or for us, but by us.

The practice of these eight principles will open the doors to let the Holy Spirit come into the worship of the church with the presence and power of the supernatural.

Eight Principles we will study are: (1) Worship Celebrates Christ, (2) Worship Tells and Acts out the Christ-Event, (3) In Worship God Speaks and Acts, (4) Worship Is an Act of Communication, (5) In Worship We Respond to God and Each Other, (6) Return Worship to the People, (7) All Creation Joins in Worship, and (8) Worship As a Way of Life.

Join us on Zoom for this powerful Bible Study.

Coffee with God

I rise before dawn and cry for help; I wait for Your words. Psalm 119:147 NASB

If you knew you had a coffee date with the Father, would you even need an alarm?

How is the morning for you? Do you rise before you need to, eager to start your day, or is the snooze button your best friend? Do you begin your day with God?

God waits for us patiently to spend time with Him. Can you visualize God waiting at your coffee table with a cup of Joe, imagine Him saying "sit down with me for a few minutes."

God loves it when we think about Him. He thinks about us constantly, because He cares about us and about how we spend our time.

Numerous times in scripture we are encouraged to be morning people. Psalm 5:3 says, "In the morning, O Lord, You will hear my voice; In the morning I will order my prayer to You and eagerly watch." 1 Samuel 1:19 says, "They rose early in the morning and worshiped before the Lord;...and the Lord remembered her."

Take time in the morning to have a cup of coffee with God, He is waiting for you.

"Coffee gets me started...
God keeps me going."

Need Prayer? The Prayer Box is available for your petitions and requests. The Intercessory Prayer Team wants to pray for you and with you that we may touch and agree that the will of the Lord is done in your life and in the lives of those we pray for.
