

FROG ROOM NEWS

In our classroom we are finishing up our unit on our emotions. The children are creating books that show them displaying different emotions. The children showed how they look when they are feeling happy, sad, mad, scared and silly. The children also looked in mirrors and then determined their eye and hair color. They learned strategies to help them understand their emotions. When we come back after spring break we will start a new project.

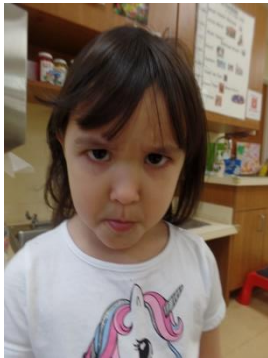

I can be mad!

During our Jesus time, we are hearing about how Jesus healed a sick man's eyes and a sick man's ears. We are also talking about how Jesus is always there to comfort us when we are scared or sad. This week we are going to hear about Jesus' ride to Jerusalem and next week we will start with the Easter Story.

This week we will practice our cutting skills by making palm branches and then we will have a parade for Jesus. Next week the children will paint wooden crosses that they can hang in their bedroom to remind them of the love Jesus has for them.

Be on the lookout after our spring break for information on our upcoming project.

I can be mad!

I can be happy!

I can be sad!

I can be silly!

I can be scared!
