Have you ever wondered.....

I wonder what time Sunday evening services time is?

You can go to <http://www.collinsvillecofc.org> and look on our homepage. We keep this page updated so that our members and others are able to see the times for our regularly scheduled classes and services. You may also look under the "calendar" tab from our homepage. This page is updated weekly with current content.

I deleted my copy of the bulletin accidentally. I wonder how I can get a duplicate?

Simply go to our "About Us" tab on our website and scroll to the bottom of the page and you will find a section with "bulletin" on it. You will find a year's worth of bulletins to look through.

We are attending church services via Facebook at this time during the pandemic. I don't want my children to fall behind on their lessons. Do you have anything to help me teach my children about God?

We have a tab called "Bible Classes" designed for all ages of children. Lessons are uploaded weekly to correspond with the "in the building" classes. This is also handy should you have to miss a week from church, the lessons are in keeping with current lessons.

I missed church this last Sunday. I sure missed not hearing the sermon.

Go to our "Video Sermons" page to find a plethora of sermons, both morning and evening sermons. You never have to miss a lesson at all.

I have been hearing about the Zoom classes but haven't been able to attend at 9:30 in the morning but I hate missing out on any of Scott's lessons.

Try our our "Resources" tab. If you are on your computer, you can hover over the name "Resources" and pick which study you would like to look at. With your phone, you can touch the little arrow > and it will take you to all of the lessons. You can download the lesson plans for each week and then listen to Scott's lesson and you will learn so much about that book in the Bible. These are great opportunities to actually have a class with Scott teaching. He is a great teacher and surely not one to miss his classes. Come join us. I know you will enjoy it!
