God Holds Us Close

By David Thurman

The people of Isaiah's time thought that God had abandoned them and that there was no hope. Isaiah begins this chapter by reminding the Israelites (and us) that God has not disappeared. He is not on vacation. He has not lost interest in us or our well-being. He has not forgotten His people or the promises He has made to them. That remains true for us today. Pandemics, wars, wildfires, (and on the list could go) do not mean God does not exist. And they do not mean He doesn't care. In the next section of Isaiah 40, the prophet will show us the proof that God is alive and well. And, then he will conclude this great chapter by explaining its effects on us. God will keep His promises.
